CREWDING THE BARGE OFFICE.

Supt. Weber Has Had Luck in Opening the Immigrant Season.

Ever since the new immigrant landing depot in the Barge Office opened there has n such an unusual rush of business that it has tested the efficiency of Col. Weber's

In fact the new Superintendent of Immigration has begun to think that he assumed the duties of his new offices at a rather un fortunate time of the year, for he has had his hands so full of work that there has aca calm view of the situation. It has been a continuous hastle from morning till night, and to-day was the busiess one of all.

This morning the first vessel to come in was the Alaska, with a steerage list of 683 passengers. Then came the Rhaetia from Germany with 567, and the Norge from Copenhagen with 287.

Towards noon the Pictavia, from the Mediterranean ports, arrived with a load of 700 immigrants, making a total of more than 2,200 arrivals for the day.

Supt. Weber himself was on hand at an sarry hour and personally supervised the land ng of the passengers from the barges. The lines were kept moving along the desks of the registering clerks, and everything was apparently being done up in the most ship-shape style.

There was fined crowding; but considering the rapidity with which the snecessive boat-loads had been discharged at the dock it was not to be wondered at.

The crowd which formerly collected about the cuirance to Castle Garden had transferred themselves to the wide pavements in front of the granite Barge Office, and the whole building and the usigniborhood presented a scene of unwonted busile and activity.

Manager Waterman's Victim Was a Justly Jealous Husband.

The Brooklyn police are busy hunting up witnesses for the inquest to be held to-morrow evening by Coroner Lindsay in the case of Peter Doran, who was shot and in-Williamsburg.

Waterman was in the company of Mrs. Doran at the time and claims that he shot the husband in self-defense.

According to his story he was escerting whole busing and the first and activity.

The Washington officials, including Assistant Secretary Tichenor and Solicitor Hephurn, who came to New York to see how the new system would work, went away satisfied that Col. Weber would make a success of it.

This morning there had been no detentions made up to noon, although the number of immigrants registered and passed was angusally large.

An essas of siekness were reported on any of the vessels landing immigrants, and the prospective critican themselves seemed to be a remarkably sturdy and respectable looking class of individuals. Most of them ware bound for the far West.

Waterman and Mrs. Doran were walking along the street they were suddenly confronted by the angry husband, who told his wife that she must leave her companion and come home with him.

Waterman, on hearing this, turned to Mrs. Doran and asked her:

"Are you going home with this man, or with me?"

Mrs. Doran, who appeared to be very much annoyed by the appearonce of Doran immediately raid, right in her husband's presence, that she preferred to have Waterman you more with her.

This so enraged Doran that he jumped at Waterman and tried to strike him, but the latter pulled out his revolver and shot him dead before he could repeat his attack.

Mrs. Doran, when Waterman was arrested and taken to the station, begged to be locked up with him, as he was the only man sho had ever loved. Mrs. Doran has not lived with her husband for four months, and at the time of the shooting was going to the house of her father, John Petterson, at 3.53 Wythe avenue.

He has been seen a great deal of late in the coursany of Mrs. Doran, who is a loud, flashy-looking woman with bloude hair and fiash)-looking woman with blonds hair and blice eyes.

In Doran's pocket were found a letter from his wife which warned him not to come near her, if he valued his life.

Airs. Doran's father says that the murdered man Ireated his wife with such cruelty that she had to leave him. Pe had frequently threatened to take her life, and had also said after she had left him that he would shoot the first man he found walking with her in the street.

Waterman's act is justified by the woman's parents, but the police say that the killing of Doran was in reality entirely supprovoked.
